Sue's Grounds Corner

My article this month is to inform everyone on our recent updates to the Palmer Ranch website. I've recently gone through our Grounds section and deleted the shrubs/trees we longer have on the Ranch and added a collection of new species we've been introducing to the ranch over the past few years.

After working on the ranch for almost 19 years, and constantly battling with shrubs to do great in the wrong spots, we've decided to try the good 'ole Florida natives. Not only do they require less water, fertilizer and maintenance but they've taught me an undeniable lesson that less is very often MORE. Our color in the Copperleaf, Firebush, Thryallis and Texas Sage (which is also cold tolerant) will prove to be quite the showcase when all are grown in and blooming up a storm. The natives also feed our birds, bees and yes even the butterflies. Below is a small sampling of what we've added. To get more information on the species, check out the Palmer Ranch website at https://www.palmerranch.net and click on the Grounds tab at the top of the page.
