On The Grounds

LAUREL OAK (QUERCUS HEMISPHAERICA)

The Laurel Oak is a rapid-growing tree that lives approximately 50 years. It is one of the most popular landscape trees in Florida because it produces a heavy shade when planted close to houses and reduces air conditioning costs during the summer. With small simple leaves that fall in the spring when the new leaves are just emerging, Laurel Oaks provide shade most of the year. Brownish black acorns are produced on the trees in great profusion during the fall months. Despite their bitter kernel, they are eaten by deer, squirrels and birds. The Laurel Oak is also popular as an ornamental tree, with its pleasing symmetry providing both form and function.
